the prejudice of the State most deeply interested in the legislation contemplated here that her Representatives have deferred to others and have yielded to them all the earlier hours of this debate. Such a course was consonant with our feelings, and I think somewhat characteristic. It is impossible, even in the hour allowed by the rule, for any opponent of this bill to do justice either to the subject or to himself. I shall not discuss it in its constitutional aspects, but I ask the indulgence of the House for a few moments while I comment upon the alleged causes which are supposed to justify it, particularly as touching my own State. In its effects the bill is ostensibly to be of universal application, but the debate has developed the fact, if it was not already known, that it is merely a party scheme, the operation of which is intended to be confined to that portion of the country which gentlemen take particular pleasure in designating as "the insurrectionary States." It is an indictment against them, founded upon voluminous heresay testimony, and the prosecutors have, unfortunately, I think, for the peace of the country, presented their arguments to the House, not in the calm spirit which should characterize the discussion of a subject so vast and farreaching, but rather in the temper of the heated partisan.

Now, sir, I shall not follow this example. I am not of that political temperament and never was, and it is gratifying to me to feel that there are gentlemen on the other side who know the fact. My friend, the honorable gentleman from l'eunsylvania, (Mr. Kelley,) to whose manly and generous conduct I am chiefly indebted for my prempt admission to the seat I occupy, a friendly service for which I wish to make this public acknowledgment, knows that ever since the termination of the late war my efforts have been directed to the promotion of peace, justice, and good order in my native State; 1865, before the Government had taken to advocate that measure I, alone and in the face of a public opinion, of which made a public speech in its favor. For this reason I have hoped that what I may say in regard to the condition of affairs in North Carolina would be accepted by him even he had scarce a just appreciation, > 26 PINE STREET, NEW YORK, Nov. 21, 1867-UDOLPHO WOLFE, Esq., Present: DEAR FIR: I have made a chemical examination of a sample of your "Schiedani Schnapps," with the intenof determining if any foreign or injurious sub 40 stance had been added to the simple distilled spirits.

> The examination has resulted in the conclusion that the sample contained no poisonous or harmful admixture. I have be a unable to discover any trace of the deleterious substances which are sometimes employed in the adultera-5 tion of liquors. I would not hesitate to use my self, nor to recommend to others, for medicinal purposes, the "Schiedam Schnappa" as an excellent and unobjectionable variety of gin. Very respectfully yours, CHAS. A. SEELY, Chemist.

great medicine of the world, for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and been largely used and highly prized. Moreover, there is no clime to which it has not proved to be well adapted for the care of a considerable variety of diseases; it is a sprody and safe remedy for burns, scalds, cuts, wounds and various other in aries, as well as for dysentery, diarrhosa and bowel complaints generally, it is admirably suited for every race of men on the face of the globe.

It is a very eignificant fact, that not withstand ing the long period of years that the "Pein Killer" has been before the world, it has nove; lost one whit of its popularity, but, on the con-trary, the call for it has steadily increased from its first discovery, and at no previous time has the demand for it been so great, or the quantity made been so large, as it is to-day. Another significant fact is, that nowhere has the Pain Killer ever been in higher reprte, or been more generally used by families and indi viduals, than it has been here at home, where it was first discovered and introduced. That the Pain Killer will continue to be, what we hav styled it, THE GREAT MEDICINE OF THE WORLD, there cannot be the shadow of a doubt .- [ Provi dence Advertiser.
